Launch your trading career with Met Traders

Get your trading career up and running while others are still taking their first steps. Met Traders offers a dynamic alternative to the traditional City route to the trading floor. After just eight weeks of training, you'll be trading real money. And after one year, you could be earning serious rewards.

Trainee trader

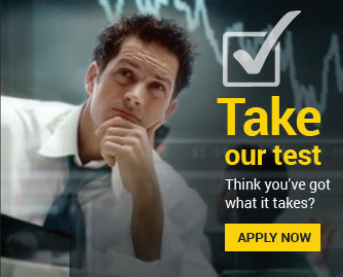

Before successfully completing the Met Traders Graduate Trader Training course, James talks about why he enjoys the course and why he recommends Met Traders.

At Met, we invest heavily in our trainees. You'll need to be able to support yourself during your first year but there are no fees for our training course.

It's an intense, demanding course, developed and taught by our own successful traders, but the rewards can be huge.

Interested?

We're now looking for bright, determined and committed graduates to join our next training course. Find out more from the Met Traders themselves. And, if you think you've got what it takes, take our test.
